This large display was started four years ago from twelve bulbs. Poppies, snapdragons, verbenas, asters, California marigold and sweet peas are some of the flowers, also in full bloom. There are single and double pinks in several varieties. These came from Illinois. A castor bean plant promises to blossom and nearby is an Easter lily with two buds, that was set out after the flowers faded on the single stock, early in the spring.

Mrs. Mary Chase and daughters, Daisy and Josie, expect to spent next week at Sunset Camp, Locke's Mills, where they have passed a vacation in past seasons.

A field near Chas. G. Blake's lumber yard is sort of a public playground where boys gather every day for baseball games and children of both sexes engage in kite-flying. This is not supervised play, nevertheless, everything is harmonious, if not absolutely quiet.

PINE TREE LEAGUE

Norway 2; West Paris 1

At Norway, Saturday afternoon, the home delegation scored the winning run in the eighth, not only capturing an air-tight battle, but leaped across the line in to first position as leaders of the league.

So close was the playing, neither team made a crossing until Norway squeezed one across in the fourth. A triple by Hill and Benson gave West Paris a run in the fifth. Bunching hits in the eighth, netted another platter cover for Norway which the visitors could not match.

Jack McCarthy pitched one of his best games, allowing only three singles and a pair of three sackers. Benson was equally successful with four singles and doubles from Hosmer and Smith. Both hurlers had excellent support in the field.

Mechanic Falls 5, South Paris 4

At Mechanic Falls, Saturday, eleven innings were necessary to decide the question of a deadlock existing from the seventh frame. The Mechanic's closed their second inning with three runs to the good. This was held until sixth when South Paris purloined two, then two in the seventh. The home guard set the brakes in their seventh for a deadlock that held firm until Tracy slammed away a two bagger into deep center that opened the way for M. Jordan to record the winning tally.

Neither pitcher allowed a pass during the game which is thought to be a league record for eleven innings.

Oxford 12, Turner 3

Saturday was harvest time at Oxford when the home shook the trees for Turner and picked up luscious fruit. Davidson, the Turner strong boy, was batter from the box. Beck, who was rushed to the mound, met a similiar fate. Bessey had a try at fooing the heavy wallopers of Oxford and finshed the batfest.

Turner had a day off in the field with 8 errors chalked down against the team, while Oxford held steady and made only 3 serious misplays.

The visitors garnered a run in the first, third and sixth, nothng more. Oxford held off scoreless until the fourth when two crossings tied up the standing. Five in the fifth and a like number in the sixth was too great lead for Turner and never approached.

In the seventh, Turner was hard hit by a jinx that spoiled a golden opportunity to balance the scales. A fast double play with the bases full and featuring Delano and Pike, nipped a rally that was heart breaking in its sudden finish.

Monday's Outing

With Attorney Gaston and Family of Passaic, N. J., Visiting Places of Interest and Viewing the Scenery

F. W. Gaston, Passaic, N. J., "Our Attorney," shook us out for one hundred and eight miles, last Monday, in search for character witnesses. We tried to look pretty and keep still, succeeding reasonably well until we reached Ben Brown's camps on Kezar Lake. Ben's fish stories so much overshadowed ours we came near having a fit and sending for Ed Coburn and Elgin Greenleaf.

Dinner was had at Brown's Camps. It was all right. The approaches to Mr. Whitehead's Island were seen. Also the lake and mountain scenery, Farrington's, the Lovell Golf Grounds. We were escorted by Ben. Brown, the champion golfist of the course, up to the time he came near cutting off his right hand on an unruly scythe. The arm is getting on nicely and we hope he will soon be able to play. Fryeburg and the Lovewell Indian Battle Ground were visited. Also E. E. Hastings & Son. As usual, Ned was at his camp waiting for the ducks to come in. Capt. Hugh Hastings was interviewed and our New Jersey attorney gained useful information, the nature of which we know not. Lawyers have the habit of talking in a back room while their clients wait. It was largely so with us.

Abbie Andrews, in the register of deeds office, showed us the copying done by Daniel Webster, the Statesman, when he taught school in that town and before he became so great as to have a New Hampshire highway named for him. His penmanship was good.

Bridgton and Harry Shorey were seen, also Mr. Cook. Harry of course was busy writing editorials to give character to the many foreclosures he is carrying in his paper. Summit Springs, in Harrison, was skipped, much to our regret, as here Daniel Boone would have cheerfully given testimony that we are an honest fisherman though at times exaggerate a little on the weight, but never violate the laws. Time did not permit us seeing him.

Mrs. Gaston drove the car and well she did it, at a high rate of speed, without accident. Her husband and son, Robert, were with her and we complained not, even if we were frightened. They returned to Poland Springs Hotel that evening so Mr. Gaston and son could play golf the next day.

BOWLING

Jazziteers 1390; J. R. Co., 1347

Bowling contests opened at Parrin's Alley, Friday evening, bringing together Henry Vancourt's rollers, representing the Jelelson-Rafter Shoe Company, and the Norway Jazziteers, a group of experts about town.

Henry's team was not quite up to the clip developed last winter and failed to dazzle their opponents. The Jazziteers climbed into the top seat during the first string and would not budge. They led in every string, winning with a margin of 43 pins.

Parrin was high bowler with 107 singles, a 101 average, and 303 total. "Bally" Gammon was Henry's strong boy and rolled an average of 100 plus with a total of 302. Jack Burgess was next highest with a total of 282 and 94 average.

A return match is expected on Friday evening, commencing at 7:30.

CUXOBEXIS AND UMBAZOOKSKUS

That is just where they went for a whole week. Impossible of proper pronunciation but fish and game were plenty. Reg. Dinsmore, Allie Noble, Fred Noble, Jr. and Holman Tucker, all of Norway, were the party.

They returned the first of last week. Saw seventy deer and other game but no moose. Got fish, white perch, salmon and trout. They went up the West Branch to the Fox hole, back to Boynton's at Chesuncook—then up through Umbazookskus Meadows, ecross Mud Pond and Chamberlain Lake and through Telos and Telosmis to Webster Stream and back again to Boynton's and down Chesuncook to Ripogenus where they left their car and then home to Norwey. It was a great trip in the wilderness.

The route by auto: Lewiston, Augusta, Waterville, Dover-Foxcroft, Monson, Greenville, Lily Bay, Grant Farm, Chesuncook Dam. Leave car here and take boat to head of the lake—12 miles.

INDIANA BACONS VISIT MAINE

E. A. Bacon and wife with Mr. Bacon's mother arrived at Myrtle Bacon's bungalow at Bryant Pond, Tuesday.

They came from Logansport, Indiana, by auto, leaving there August 15.

They visited friends in Boston and took along with them Ralph Bacon, who is connected with the Christian Science Publishing Co. of that city. They stopped at some of the beaches of which that state is famous.

In 1904 E. A. Bacon was last here on a visit. They will remain about two weeks.

They were in Norway, Thursday, calling on friends and relatives. Mrs. Fannie M. Smith is a relative.

WHITING CALLS ON SANBORN

E. E. Whiting, the versatile writer of Boston Herald, called at this office on his return from Senator Fernald's funeral, last week.

It was the story he wrote for the Herald of Maine's champion fiddler that opened the way for Mellie Dunham to visit Henry Ford and gain a national reputation and some money. It was the Norway Advertiser, O. W. Brown and E. E. Whiting who started "Mellie and Gram" to fame and fortune.

Of course we were pleased to meet Mr. Whiting and insisted on sharing our dinner with him, even if the appointment with Senator Moses of New Hampshire was delayed a bit.

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Veterans, held regular meeting Friday evening, the first of the season, and with other business decided to omit the trip to Upton, that had been pending, for this fall. Mr. A. W. Judkins, to whose home the Daughters go, has been taken to the Rumford Hospital. Several members will attend the outing and Field Day at Belfast, Monday, Labor Day, given by the Sons of Union Veterans, Civil War Outing Association.

Admiral and Mrs. Kaemmerling returned, Wednesday, from a three weeks' business trip to Oregon, and are occupying their camp at Rock Island, at the lake.

HIGH SCHOOL REUNION

Eleventh Annual Gathering Held Friday, at Grange Hall

The Norway Liberal Institute and Norway High School, met Friday evening, August 27, for the annual reunion at Norway Grange Hall, for the eleventh annual gathering. The Jolly Norwegians, an orchestra of high school students, a portion of them graduates this year, furnished excellent music while the members were gathering, for the march to the dining hall, and later in the evening for dancing.

Classes were formed in line in the order of graduation, Harold A. Anderson acting as marshal, the President and wife, toastmaster and wife, and Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Stephens leading. Covers were laid for 130.

The tables were very attractive with bouquets of cut flowers. The ladies of the Grange served an excellent banquet. At the business meeting following, President Albert A. Towne presided. Officers were elected as follows for the coming year:

Pres.—Philip F. Stone, '02.
Vice Pres.—Mrs. Grace Jordan Starbird, '99.
Sec.—Miss Mildred Curtis, '15.
Treas.—Clayton Heath, '13.
Executive Committee—Harold A. Anderson, '04; Miss Mercy Millett, '91; Stephen Bradeen, '19; Miss Dorothy Goodwin, '25; and Albert A. Towne, '96.
Nominating Com.—Edward L. Burnell, Fred E. Smith and Mrs. Elon L. Brown.

The report of the secretary was read, and several letters from absent members were read. These included those from Judge Charles P. Barnes of Houlton; Verne M. Whitman, Headmaster of the Laconia, N. H. High School; Dr. Frank I. Brown of South Portland and Bethel; A. G. Wiley, M. D., Bar Mills; Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden, Rochester, N. Y.; W. E. Stuart, Boston; Percival E. Hathaway, Chicago; Albert C. Parker, New Jersey, and Mrs. Anna Cole Wilson of the class of '23, now in Los Angeles, Cal. Hugh Pendexter, the popular author, presided as toastmaster, and in his introduction of the various speakers, wove in reminiscences of days when he was associated with the school, as teacher, aptly coining a word to fit the situation. Dr. C. A. Stephens, the well known author, related several incidents of his school days in the Norway Liberal Institute, told in his inimitable way, happenings of the earlier days under Prof. Leonard, to whom he paid high tribute. Later, as perceptor of the school, he reviewed some of the hardships he encountered, telling these as encouragement to the present day teachers. He recalled the old time Lyceum, and caused much laughter by his references. Fred L. Leferriere, '97, of Berlin, N. H.; Howard D. Smith, '65; Donald B. Partridge, '10; Winfield Kimball, of White Plains, N. Y., '05; Aaron Yeaton, '11, athletic director in Milton, Mass., all responded happily and entertainingly.

Returning to the upper hall, all enjoyed a stereoptican talk by Winfield Kimball, on "An Auto Camping Tour," which was interesting, as well as instructive, as it gave a good idea of how to camp and the equipment necessary. Mr. Kimball has been contributing to Outing magazines along this line, which he enjoys. The views taken were of his own.

At the roll of classes taken, the class of '90 won the silver trophy cup, presented by the Alumni Association in 1923. They had 33 per cent. of their members present. The class of '25 followed second with 25 per cent., and the class of '24 with 24 present. The remainder of the evening was passed renewing acquaintances, and dancing.

The personnel of the orchestra included Kenneth Goodwin, banjo and director; Paul Brown, violin; Philip Greenleaf, cornet; Arnold Hasty, saxophone, and Miss Evelyn Gilman, piano.

A few who came from out of town to the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bean of Howard, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox, Fryeburg; Miss Lena Felt, Lewston; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Leferriere, Berlin, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Alton Frost, Portland; Miss Mary Bickford and Miss Grace Bickford, Hanover, Mass.; Mrs. Dorris L. Johnson, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. Marjorie Henderson, Methuen, Mass.; Mrs. Mae M. The class of '90 held its annual reunion Tuesday evening at Lakeside Inn, where a fine beef steak supper was served at 6:30 o'clock. The table decorations were cut flowers grown at the Inn gardens, and were much admired. Following the supper, the members held their business meeting in the ball room, before a fire in the big fireplace. President Harry P. Jones presided. Officers were re-elected, the list comprising, President, Dr. Harry P. Jones; Sec. and Treas., Miss Carrie Tucker; executive committee, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cushman and Mr. and Mrs. Rust Jackson. Death came suddenly to Daniel H. Field of this town, Thursday evening, Aug. 27, while making a trip with L. L. Briggs, to the spring near Swift's Crossing on High St., about a mile above the village. The affair was the outcome of a good time at a dance where according to the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Harold Bennett of Bethel, who was called, found the respondent prepared to take on all comers, regardless of weight or size. Stearns of Paris, who has a camp on those waters. The trout weighed viz: 5 1-4, 5, 4 1-2, 3 3-4 pounds, respectively. The two smaller ones were not weighed. It was a big catch.

MAINE, THROUGH A HOOSIER'S EYES

Oh, the dark and dingy weather of the pine tree forest state,
I almost wish I'd lingered in the good old Hoosier state,
You travel up the mountain, and you travel down again,
And all you see are rocks and ferns—and one would fain
Remember Indiana, where the corn fields wave and bend,
And the quail out in the meadow that so cheerily do send
Their ever welcome message to stranger, foe and friend.
But oh! the grandeur of the mountains and the cliffs of dear old Maine,
The rugged beauty of the rocks in sunshine or in rain,
The pines and spruce and fir trees, make the distant hills look fine,
The winding roads and waterfalls, the ferns and brooklets, too,
All add their share of beauty,
And I willingly proclaim
I love the state, I love the folks,
And I want to come again.

—MABEL KILBORN BACON.

Scientist Finds Goiter in Minnesota Chickens

Two cases of that rarest of poultry diseases, goiter, have recently been diagnosed by Dr. H. C. H. Kernkamp, assistant professor of veterinary medicine, University of Minnesota. Both were in White Orpington hens which came from the same farm in Ramsey county.

In one of the specimens the thyroid gland had become so enlarged that it pressed against the trachea and inferior larynx and caused the former to become flattened. The heart had also become slightly displaced by the growth and the lungs were pressed against the walls of the thorax.

Records of the veterinary medicine division at university farm show that of 2,409 autopsies on poultry sent in from all parts of Minnesota for investigation and study the last six years, these two cases were the only ones of goiter observed in birds. Carpenter, a veterinary scientist of California, did not find a single case of goiter in 1,000 autopsies on chickens.

Vegetable Chicken Stew

Dress a fowl and cut into joints. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and cook in it one small chopped onion, three sweet red peppers and three sweet green peppers, cut in small cubes; 1 tablespoonful chopped parsley and one bayleaf. Cook for a few minutes to develop flavor. Then add two teaspoonfuls salt, six tomatoes or one large can tomatoes and one-quarter pound ham or two or three slices bacon, chopped fine. Simmer for ten minutes. Place layers of the chicken, vegetable mixture and ham in casserole until all is used. Pour over this one cupful boiling water. Simmer until the chicken is tender, the United States Department of Agriculture recommends.

More Color in the Menus

Fruits Essential to a Balanced Diet

Eat more fruit. Eat it fresh or dried, eat it raw or cooked, eat it home canned or commercially canned. But eat fruit regularly twice a day. Why should food authorities find it necessary to urge this when fruit is a universally popular food of which the housewife always buys as much as she feels she can afford? "The Answer is in the Word Afford." She is too likely to consider it primarily a pleasure and a luxury and therefore the first food to economize on. A fuller knowledge both of the value of fruit, and of the attractive varieties of serving staple and cheaper fruits, such as apples and the dried fruits will help her keep the day's food attractive, well balanced and still economical.

Fruits Are Necessities

Fruits demand a place in the diet because they contain some of the rarer building materials, such as the iron that gives the red-blooded vigor of the "iron constitution" and the lime which keeps teeth so good that the dentist becomes merely a cleaner, not a repairer. The mysterious vitamines of fruit tend to keep adults whole and hearty and encourage normal growth in children. And the digestive stimulants present are superlatively good preventive of the too-common slowed digestion and elimination, with its results of listlessness and fatigue.

Economy in Buying Fruit

The housewife's problem is to secure these valuable contributions to her family's health economically. Apple sauce is apple sauce, whether made of expensive early or very late apples, or canned at home from apples in their prime at the height of their season and low point of their cost. Canned plums are the same fruit, whether they are bought canned in California, canned at home from the supply the dealer happened to have, or from a special community canning order thru the local leader at the cheapest time of the season. Dried fruits bought by the case in the fall, and soaked and cold packed canned when empty jars are available are both cheaper and better than those bought by the pound during the year.

The Cooking of Fruits

Fruits are never more valuable than when they are served raw, but to use them out of season, or to give variety to a fruit so common that it becomes tiresome, cooking is advantageous. In cooking, the natural color and shape and the natural flavor are to be preserved as nearly as possible. Such fruit as apples and bananas darken on standing and are therefore prepared just before time to serve. Too long cooking has the same effect. Cook only until just tender.

Dried fruits need soaking before cooking to be at their best. Several hours or over night is none too long. If the fruits first have been well washed the water in which they were soaked should be used for cooking. Slow cooking without stirring is best and steaming, or the fireless cooker or the double boiler are excellent. For preserving the flavor one must take care not to use large quantities of sugar. Sugar is not necessary to the keeping of properly canned fruit, nor do the heavily sweetened fruits make a valuable contribution to the diet. It is quite possible even for grown-ups to cultivate a taste which prefers the fruit flavor to the over sweetened taste of preserves and children may be taught from the first to do so. In the case of dried fruits, or of insipid fresh or canned fruit sauce, a little lemon juice will often make a surprising improvement.

Serve As Attractively As Possible

Serve as attractively as possible. The serving is nearly as important as the preparation, especially for those fruits that have been cooked. Arrange in individual dishes if possible as this spreads the color over a larger surface. The brighter colored fruits should be combined with the less colorful ones as in fruit cup.

Fruit Cup
2 cups orange pieces
2 cups pineapple diced
2 cups diced apple
Sugar
Few grains of salt
1-2 cup shredded cocoanut

Dice the fruits without crushing. Mix, sweeten to taste and add the cocoanut to the top after dishing out. Many other combinations are possible with or without nuts or cocoanut. Apples may be used with any of the cooked tart fruits, such as cranberries, cherries, strawberries. Dates, figs or raisins may be added.

Shortcake Out of Strawberry Time
A baking powder dough is first made.
2 cups flour
4 t. baking powder
1-4 t. salt
2 t. sugar
3-4 c. milk
1-4 c. butter or other fat

Mix dry ingredients, sift twice, work in fat with tips of fingers and add add milk gradually. Toss on floured board, divide in two parts. Roll out and bake twelve minutes in hot oven in buttered round cake tins. Split and spread with butter. Sweeten fruit if necessary and spread between and on top of cake. Top with whipped cream. Individual cakes may be made by cutting with biscuit cutter and then proceed as in first directions. Canned strawberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, pears, pineapple, or dried peaches, apples and appricots may be used. This is easy to serve and is very attractive.

Fruits With Gelatin
3 T. gelatin
1-2 c. boiling water
1-2 c. cold water
Lemon juice if necessary
1-4 to 1 c. sugar, depending on acid of fruit
3 cups fruit juice. Pulp may be added for flavor.

Soak gelatine in cold water until soft, add to boiling water and stir over hot water until thoroughly dissolved. The object of heating so little water is to hasten ten the cooling and solidifying of gelatine. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat. Add remainmaining liquid. Cool. Before adding fruit pulp the mixture may be beaten. As soon as mixture begins to jell beat with egg beater until it will hold shape Add fruit pulp if desired. This makes a variation in appearance. Fruits that can be used are prunes, pineapple, bananas, oranges, berries, peaches, apricots and grapes. Combinations of fruits may also be used.

Prune Bread
2 1-2 c. whole wheat bread flour
1-4 c. sugar
1 t. salt
4 t. baking powder
1 large cup milk
1-2 lb. prunes

Mix and add one cup milk and prunes (chopped). Bake one hour.

Farm Storage Cellar Will Pay for Itself

Have you ever had the experience of trying to sell apples, potatoes and other crops when everyone else was trying to do the same thing?

Markets glutted at harvest time often knock the profits out of a season's efforts.

Why not arrange to store some of your crops so they can be marketed in accordance with demand?

Here's where the concrete storage cellar comes in. Many a farmer who has one can tell you that its total cost was returned to him the first year by being able to take advantage of marketing conditions when they were most favorable.

You can easily build a storage cellar or other concrete improvements on your farm by following a few simple directions. Let us send you a free copy of our booklet "Plans for Concrete Farm Buildings." Write for it today.

Our National Anniversary

The Adoption and Author of the Declaration of Independence, by C. F. Whitman, of Norway

Much has been written this summer about the adoption of the Declaration of Independence and its author. This is always appropriate and especially so this year as it was its 150th anniversary.

It was brought out by newspaper writers for general readers—what students of the event knew that amid doubt and indecision Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, on June 7th, 1776, had introduced a resolution in the Continental Congress for Independence which he advocated in his usual able and Ciceronian eloquent manner.

John Adams of Massachusetts, who was a good pleader, seconded the resolution which was laid on the table for further deliberation.

On the 11th of June, a committee of five was selected to draw up a Declaration of Independence. As Richard Henry Lee had been away, called to the bedside of his sick wife, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia was appointed a member of the committee. The other members of it were John A. Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman of Connecticut and Robert R. Livingston of New York.

Jefferson was selected to draft the declaration—"he being skilled with the pen." Adams and Franklin made alterations which the committee and congress adopted. Jefferson originated no new phrases in writing the declaration and Adams they were hackneyed, having been used by the members of Congress time and over again. Nevertheless the mass of the people who read it believe that about all of it originated with the words of Lee in his resolution that "the Colonies should be free and independent States," coupled with Jefferson.

Then began the struggle between timid to its manifold duties and the wise Franklin, Adams and others together or long speeches.

Jefferson took no part in the debate upon its adoption. He was a ready debater, but he was not given to talking for being his great work was in Congress.

On the 2nd day of July the Declaration of Independence was adopted. On the next day was read to the people on the 4th of July the Declaration was proclaimed. The anniversary of the 2nd was the first observance Day, which is celebrated to the present time.

The members of Congress remained till the 2d day of August, when they signed it. Then two or three were added to the subsequently signed. It was for the members to affix their names to the measures to make it a matter of record and to show that it had the unanimous support of everyone.

One writer has described the most important incident relating to the adoption of the declaration. He states that a swarm of flies from a neighboring stable invaded the hall and so bit the members through their silk stockings that they hurried them in coming to a decision.

Here are perhaps some new ideas and suggestions about the author of the declaration. What acts of his would we most naturally think, except being its writer, he would be proud of? He had been Governor of Virginia, minister to France, founder of a political party, and President of the United States. During his administration, Louisiana, which had doubled the domain of his country, had been acquired. Oregon had been explored for his agents, and though it was for scientific and geographical purposes only, it had lived to see it included in the United States and a thriving settlement on the Pacific. But he was especially proud of one of his acts, which was three times mentioned in the epitaph on the tombstone of him who told the world he was the author of it. Epitaph, as we know, was written by Jefferson himself, and he had no wish to be remembered as President, governor, minister to France or founder of a political party. The epitaph was as follows:

"Here lies Thomas Jefferson,
Author of the Declaration of Independence,
The Statute of Virginia
For Religious Freedom
and
Father of the University of Virginia."

Note—It is related that Ludwell Lee, a son of Richard Henry Lee, was at a school in England, when his father was taking such a prominent part for the independence of the colonies. On one occasion at an assembly where the young man with other students was present a nobleman asked another near him, who the student was. "That, sir, is young Lee from Virginia. He is the son of Richard Henry Lee whom you must have heard of." "Ah, indeed," was the answer, "We shall have him yet on Tower Hill." Overhearing this remark, young Lee replied with much spirit, "You may have him when you can get him. Every American is with him. You cannot hang them all."

It is of interest to Norway people that Ludwell Lee was afterwards an owner of the Lee's Grant.

Church Re-dedicated

The Waterford Church Held Appropriate Services of Rededication Last Sunday.

The church has been re-decorated cated on Sunday. A beautiful and inspiring service was held at half-past ten and the church was crowded, even beyond the doors, seats being placed in the vestibule for a large number of people.

The church has been re-decorated throughout, in perfect taste, the foundation rebuilt and many other repairs have been made through the generosity of Miss Mabel Gage, assisted by people who are interested in the welfare of the church, and all that it stands for in the community, and who have given as they could afford, of money, labor and materials.

The decorating was done by John Wentworth and a capable force of workmen and it is a fine piece of work.

The service was attended by people of this town and the surrounding towns, and a goodly number of former residents of Waterford, some of whom had not been here for a long time, and by the summer colony, who have always been faithful attendants of our church and liberal contributors.

Dr. Ernest Abbott, son of the late Rev. Lyman Abbott, and who is Editor-in-Chief of the Outlook magazine, delivered the sermon and brought an inspiring message. Old hymns, loved by everyone were sung, also a beautiful hymn written by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Townsend, and the Sunshine Singing Class, under the direction of Miss Ethel Monroe, sang a selection.

In the evening, a song service was held, when the newly installed electric lights, which were given by Mrs. Ellen Knight, were lighted for the first time. Mrs. Knight, who is eighty-nine years of age, was able to be present and turned on the lights which are most attractive, being copies of the old fashioned candles and reflectors, which lighted the churches of several generations ago.

At the evening service, the youngest son of Carl and Mina Hamlin was christened.

Everyone felt that the whole day had been perfect in every way.

Each Man's Way of Living

His Private Life Example the Greatest Influence in Youth

"The statement has been made that the average intelligence of all the American Youth who were examined by the Army in the World War was twelve years.

"Psychological examinations prepared by experimenting college professors and applied to nervous youth in new environment did not always produce sure conclusions. It came under my immediate observation that many very successful young business men could not move a pencil through an intricate puzzle picture and and always come out at the proper exit, nor did they all know that Chard is a vegetable, but they could take a machine gun apart in complete darkness and put it together again and name every part, and many of them could build a fire and get hot coffee who perhaps didn't know the coffee came from Brazil or that Java is not the capital of Peru.

"It is very interesting to consider the human race as a great mass of beings moving along a highway, with here and there a Moses or a Samuel, a Buddha, a Washington or a Lincoln, and to consider how far above them all, stands Jesus, the Savior, directing men in a way only dimly seen after two thousand years of struggle for his ideas.

"The world is not made up of Alexanders or Caesars—it is made up of average men and women. Down through the ages they have been coming perhaps five hundred thousand years, gathering wisdom, trying, testing this way and that, to get the best rules of conduct—the best philosophy of life.

"One thousand years before Christ, they sang the Psalms, and many thousands of years before that, some early David chanted a beautiful song to the Son God or the Fire.

"The concentrated wisdom of the ages was gathered in the Bible and when the Bible began to be printed, average men began to be educated.

"Can you see this great mass of people ever coming, surging on? Do you ever think of Russian inheritance and environment, of the German, Frenchman, Italian. Can you see how a false slant in early training of youth will produce a Europe where fighting is second nature and where resort to force seems to be the only program to the disgust of peace-loving America?

"What is our position among the average? In my judgment a great teacher, perhaps the greatest for average youth, in Maine, is not a book, a picture, or a theatre—it is the example of private life of each citizen.

"This mass of humanity moves in waves. One group surges this way, another that. A prominent Maine politician, told me that he never tried to create waves of popular opinion; he waited until the wave had formed, then tried to ride it to the right destination.

"Are we creating public opinion, or are we trying to direct the wave? The lives of all History offer the most interesting comparisons. Lincoln studied the Bible and Plutarch's Lives—hence his Gettysburg Address.

"Akbar was a great King of India who tried to introduce popular education. Had he lived, the public school would have had a chance in India in 1500 A. D. Read, if you please, Donald Wallace's "Russia," written in 1875 and learn how easy it was for Lenine and Trotsky to carry through their plans in 1918.

"There is nothing new under the sun. Many waves of public opinion have swept this country in the brief span of fifty years. Green Backs, Free Silver, Holy Rollers, The Primary, Prohibition, Big Business, and Women's Suffrage. Now apply the average intelligence to these questions and tell me if there is much difference between the average intelligence of the Jewish Slaves who followed Moses across the desert and the Pennsylvania voters, who sold their ballots in the last Primary.

"Bruce Barton has just written two books—"The Man Nobody Knows" and "The Book Nobody Knows." The Savior and the Bible are the Man and the Book.

"Please understand I am an optimist. I believe there never has been a more glorious youth than the present American Youth: the future looks good to me. I would like to live my life over again to enjoy more of these wonderful things our Father in Heaven has provided for us, but I would want years of preparation and study, of fasting and prayer—of reading and meditation.

"I would be a Moses and a Samson, a Washington and a Jecerson, a Longfellow and a Riley, a conservative and a liberal, but I would be mighty careful how I originated new waves of public opinion and having started them, I would be prepared to ride them to a safe harbor.

"These waves are easy to start and mighty hard to control. Like Dame Rumor, they grow and swell because the average intelligence is seeking a new way and is prone to listen to a Roosevelt or a Wilson, branding the conservative as a back number. Waves sometimes break and roll backward, bringing ruin on their followers. For example, study the great strike in Britain, Communism in Russia and Dept repudiation in France.

"In a few brief moments, one can only outline, but if you will now pick up the thought where I have left it, this fall and winter you will be reading Plutarch and the Bible, Homer and Herodotus and you may be surprised to find how nearly the intelligence of those older people approached the average intelligence of today."

From address given before the Rotarians of Skowhegan by George C. Webber of Auburn.

Golf caddies in the United States in 1925 earned more than the baseball players of 22 leagues.

'OLD TIME PRINTER CALLS

W. T. Bowker of West Paris years ago started the publication or printing of a paper called "The Eagle." It had local news and literary features, though short lived. It made its owner a printer.

He worked for Montrose Chase of Bryant's Pond and in the Advertiser office when D. Cram of Clark and Harrington Plummer were on its staff. This was almost a quarter of a century back.

A stranger recently alighted from a well filled auto and requested the Advertiser be sent to him at Portland for a year. It proved to be Mr. Bowker and in the car were his wife and 15 year old son, Curtis Bowker, and others.

It was the closing of a two weeks' vacation and he was returning to the Southworth Press of Portland, where he is foreman of the composing room, and has been for the past seven years.

He looked over the shop and noted the changes made since he worked here and received one dollar or so per day wages.

DON SEITZ FILES EXCUSES

That's just it. The other fellow got at him first. Seitz turns down our invitation to attend the Maine Press Association meeting in Houlton, thusly:

"Sorry I can't make it. Am billed to adorn an Electrical Convention at The Thousand Islands on Sept. 2d. Have been out to Sandusky, Ohio, on a lecture trip and with a family reunion in the Shenandoah Valley, am mixed on my Norway trip, which I hope to take soon. Can't make Houlton. Sorry."

The above is as near as can be made out from his letter. If it isn't exactly that, it is something near it. Am sorry to say he is not to be with us in Houlton.

Robert Byram, 12 years old, of Freeport, visited his uncle, L. M. Carroll, recently, and became interested in the size of the elms on Dr. B. F. Bradbury's lawn.

Anything in Your Eye?

Many people who come to us for eye examination imagine there is some foreign substance in their eyes.

It is hard to convince them, sometimes, that these gritty, sandy, scratching, irritating conditions are symptoms and effects due to refractory errors which usually can be corrected by the wearing of properly fitted glasses.

Let us take the "grit" out of your eyes. 35-36

Moving Pictures of Maine

To Show the Recreational, Industrial and Agricultural Lines in the State

One of the most comprehensive set of moving pictures ever taken on Maine will be taken in the course of the next two weeks and will be taken with especial care as to the scenic and recreational attractions of the State, at the same time including the various industries and the agricultural pursuits of the State, especial attention being paid to the present potato crop in Aroostook.

The pictures are being taken by Benjamin Miggins, to be released in Fox Varieties which are widely distributed by the Fox Film Corporation of New York City throughout the world. Fox Varieties consists of series of pictures taken all over the world, each one dealing with some particular subject, and are educational as well as entertaining.

Maine is fortunate in having a moving picture operator of the type and broad experience that Mr. Miggins brings. The pictures will be taken under the direction of Philip Ricker Shorey, Director of Publicity State of Maine Associates, who will accompany Mr. Miggins, taking him to the various points of interest throughout the state. Mr. Miggins' travels in filming subjects for Fox Varieties has taken him to many foreign countries, as well as other states in this country, where he has made similar pictures as he will make of Maine.

In 1925 Mr. Miggins travelled through France, Switzerland and Italy, thence to Egypt where he made pictures of King Fuad and all government departments in Egypt. He also made a picture on ancient Egypt, the monuments of Egypt, Mother Nile, showing the importance of the Nile for navigation, the drinking water and farm land being really the source of life to all Egypt.

In his travels he met Howard Carter at King Tut's tomb and Dr. Howell, the American Minister to Egypt, photographing both at King Tut's tomb. He then proceeded to Africa to Sudan to make more pictures on the Nile. From there he went to Cairo and to Mt. Siani by camel caravan for a period of two weeks.

He returned to Cairo and and proceeded by auto through the Holy Lands from Jerusalem to the sea of Galilee, thence to Damascus from where he travelled over the Syrian desert for hundreds of miles.

From Syria he went to Beruit and thence to Island of Cypress through the Greek Archipelago, visiting many islands, Patmos and others, to Smyrna, thence to Constantinople where he filmed the city and visited Admiral Mark Bristol, the American High Commissioner to Turkey.

At Greece Mr. Miggins made a photographic record of antiquities of life in Greece and had a photographic interview with General Pangolous. From Greece he proceeded to Italy, filming the south part of Italy and Sicily, returning to Naples and going through France, Spain and Portugal to the Canary Islands.

The pictures Mr. Miggins will take on Maine should be of the utmost interest to every section of the country, as they they will show what Maine has to offer along recreational, industrial and agricultural lines.

Among the subjects to be filmed are the hardwoods of Maine, her sardine industries at Eastport, her lime quarries, potato industry, her many water resource and points of recreational appeal.

The Home

ARTICLES ON HOME ECONOMICS

"Mid pleasurers and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

These few words express better than any others our deepest sentiments regarding the home. We fully appreciate its worth ond value to each of us, but do we realize the responsibility of our home to other homes in the town, state and nation? All our institutions from the church and schools to the prison and reformatory are established, managed and occupied by men and women from American homes. Thus the home is the heart of the nation, and whether the nation is strong or weak depends upon the influence of its homes.

Many people say that the home of today is not doing its duty, that it is becoming only a place where people sleep and eat. That outside organizations, good and bad, furnish the food, clothing, physical care, moral training and amusement which in our grandfather's day, were all supplied by the home. We generally feel that the home of that time was overworked, that the cotton factory can make better gingham, and the shoe factory better shoes than were made by our grandfathers. But can the child learn to uphold honor, learn to respect the rights of others, learn to have sympathy, understanding and love for his fellow men outside of the home. It is true that the churches and schools try to do all these things besides teaching the dignity of labor, co-operation and value of property and money, but without the backing and aid of the home these organizations can make little headway. A certain person has made nine requirements for the ideal home which seem especially good. Thus the home should be:

Economically sound
Mechanically convenient
Physically healthful
Morally wholesome
Mentally stimulating
Socially responsible
Artistically satisfying
Spiritually inspiring
Founded upon mutual love and respect

Economically Sound Home

It seems that in order that the home be economically sound that there should be a minimum income which will be sufficient for savings, proper food, clothing and shelter as well as healthful recreation. This income must be spent wisely whether it is $1,000 or $10,000 a year. The $1,000 family cannot own a $1,500 automobile; or the $10,000 family possess 10 servants unless sacrifice some vital necessity as nourishing for or savings for old age.

Mechanically Convenient

The cry that "housekeeping is drudgery" has been heard for many years. In the modern home, however, there are appearing many labor and time saving devices, as vacuum cleaners, electric irons and washing machines. These serve to shorten the time spent at housework and make it interesting. Women also are learning that the way kitchen furniture is arranged will make work hard or easy for instance, think of the steps saved when the frying pan is hung behind the stove rather than in the pantry beneath the sink.

Physically Healthful

Happiness and prosperity depend to a very great degree upon good health. Little things do not irritate so easily, and we attack big problems with zeal when there is no headache or indigestion to make the world seem dark and dreary. Yearly physical examinations, nourishing food, fresh air and sunshine, and comfortable clothing make work light and doctor bills small. By the yearly physical examinations the first signs of tuberculosis may be detected; the tooth treated which might bring about painful rheumatism; the small lump which develops into the hdeous cancer, may be removed; or the blood which needs more iron may be built up before a rest cure is necessary.

Morally Wholesome

The moral life of the home cannot be over emphasized. While the church and school may teach the value of honesty, loyalty, and charity it is of little benefit unless the home insists upon the same standards.

Mentally Stimulating

The home to be an inspiration to its members must take an active interest in things which are worth while. Thus good books, music, current events, interest in community social events, welfare work, give the family common interests outside of household duties, and lessens the monotony of housework. The dinner dishes must be washed, but how much quicker is this accomplished if afterward mother and sister are to listen to a radio speech or concert.

Socially Responsible

The social responsibilities of the home are many. Upon it depend the kind of schools, the influence exerted by the church the condition of the poor, sanitary conditions and what today is of vital importance—the social life of the young people. Each home should be an example to other homes, and demand that the town or city be a place where they are proud to live.

Artistically Satisfying

People, fortunately differ widely in their tastes, and this is shown very plainly in the furnishings of the home. As home is so dear to us, we want it to be a place which is restful, cheerful and inspiring. This home can be realized by the least costly of furnishings and decorations as well as by expensive things. There are a few rules to follow which concern color, line and form. Once these are mastered any home may be made artistic.

Spiritually Inspiring

The worth of spiritual inspiration in the home is beyond value, and its presence is a great factor in any home.

Mutual Love and Affection

This is the basis of the home life and is the most important characteristic of the family life. When the home has love and respect to start with, all of the other requirements of the ideal home may be acquired.

Roberta and Pauline Browne Enjoy Visit at Wilson's Mills

Bethel, Me., Aug. 3, 1926.

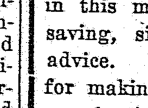

My dear Mr. Sanborn: Mother wanted Roberta and I to write and thank you for the lovely trip home. She thought it was so very nice of you, especially to bother with us in Berlin. We certainly did enjoy it, and didn't we buy some pretty things. Thank you so much for the nice dinner. We won't soon forget it. Now I promised to tell you of my trip to Wilson's Mills, but I am not very good at story telling, so don't feel disappointed.

My Trip to Wilson's Mills

July 20th was a lovely morning and Roberta and I started off for Flint's Camps, Wilson's Mills. On the way up we went by the way of Grafton Notch and got to the dam about noon. There was a party from Old Orchard waiting. We got up to camp about two o'clock. Had dinner, and an hour after we went in swimming. Curley was glad to see us and we were glad to see him. That night a little girl came on the boat, her name was Janet. We became good friends. We went fishing, I fell in, but could swim, so was all right. Janet and I caught quite a few fish and put them in a pail and then put some bull frogs in with them. We had to put them back because they wanted the pail, but I could not catch one with a fish pole. I got some bread and put it in the water and when the fish came up after it, pulled a net up under them and caught them. I did hate to start for home because the Flints did give me such a good time that I hated to go, but Janet was going the same morning. On the way we saw two loons and a big white bird, I can't remember the name. When we got to the dam, we started for home. We stopped and got our dinner and then we started on. We stopped in Berlin and got a lot of pretty thinge.—Pauline Browne.

Lesson for September 5

THE TENT OF MEETING

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 33.
GOLDEN TEXT—And the Lord spake unto Moses face to face as a man speaketh unto his friend.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's House in the Wilderness.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses Worships in God's House.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Friendship With God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Communion With God.

I. The Divine Command to Possess the Land (vv. 1-6).

1. The abiding purpose (v. 1).

They were to go up and possess the land despite the fact that the calf worship had broken the bond between them and their God. God spoke of them as the people whom Moses brought up out of Egypt, not as His own people. They had not shown any true penitence for their awful sin, therefore God could not claim them as His own.

2. Divine aid promised (v. 2).

Though their sins made it impossible for God to go with them, He still agrees to help them by sending an angel before them to drive out their enemies.

3. The threatened withdrawal of the divine presence (vv. 3, 5).

God said, "I will not go up in the midst of thee, for thou art a stiff-necked people, lest I consume thee in the way." The presence of God in the midst of a sinning and impenitent people would mean death unto them. The mercy of God is often strikingly shown by God's withdrawal from His people.

4. The effect upon the people (vv. 4, 6).

(1) "When the people heard these evil tidings they mourned."

They had not understood the seriousness of God's threatened withdrawal. They knew that no angel could make up for the great loss of the personal presence of God. They called it "evil tidings." Surely no tidings are so evil as those which tell of the withdrawal of the divine presence.

(2) They stripped themselves of their ornaments, showing that the articles which indicated gladness and joy could not be consistently worn when God had departed. We must be stripped of all that pertains to self and carnal pleasures if we be clothed with the divine blessing.

II. The Tent of Meeting (vv. 7-11).

1. It was pitched outside of the camp (v. 7).

As a token of the severed fellowship, the symbol of God's dwelling place, the tent of meeting was placed without the camp. While this showed the excommunication of His people, it showed also God holding out an opportunity to such individuals as sought the Lord to continue in fellowship with Him.

2. Moses in communion with God (vv. 8-10).

Because Moses had not transgressed God's law, he still had fellowship with God. The visible sign to the people that God honored Moses was the descent of the "cloudy pillar" as Moses entered the tent of meeting.

3. Moses the friend of God (v. 11).

This is one of the most beautiful expressions of personal fellowship to be found in all the Bible, if not in all literature. Friendship implies mutual confidence and sympathy, a disposition to share each other's secrets.

4. Joshua at home in the tabernacle (v. 11).

Joshua was not involved in the rebellion of the people. Because of his fidelity he was privileged to abide in the tent in the divine fellowship.

III. Moses' Prayer (vv. 12-23).

Moses' mind was somewhat perplexed, therefore he came to the Lord for the solution of his problem. God had said that He would send an angel to carry out His covenant obligation concerning the people in the possession of the land. Moses desired fuller knowledge of this angel so that he might act intelligently with reference to the matter. He asked for three things:

1. Fuller knowledge (vv. 12-14).

In order to lead the people he needed to know more fully his God.

God graciously responded to this request by assuring him that His presence would go with him and that He would give him rest.

2. "If thy presence go not with me, carry us not hence" (vv. 15-17).

Moses was convinced that no substitute could take God's place even though that one be an angel. He argued that it would be better to perish in the wilderness than to attempt to go into Canaan without God.

3. "Show me thy glory" (vv. 18-23).

Manifestly Present

Never in all the world's history has God been more manifestly present in it than when Jesus died upon the cross. We can all see that now. God was there, if He was ever anywhere in the world of men.

The True Prayer

The true prayer in time of great trial, care, or sorrow, is, not that we shall be delivered from the experiences, but that we may pass through them unharmed.

Chicken and Poultry Farming

Judge O. A. Towne of the Transcript-Journal, Franklin Falls, N. H., Expresses Himself as Follows:

We sometimes think that there is no chance for the farmer today to make more than a bare living on his farm. That one who is in debt has no chance ever to make enough to pay up what he owes. We hear it said that everything which the farmer raises costs more in wages than he receives for the product which he sells. Some of this is more or less true, mostly all true. But there is one farm product which is not yet overworked in New Hampshire, and that is chicken raising. There are several who are making good money with hens and chickens. One man in the western part of the state is reported to be sure of a profit of over ten thousand dollars for this year's work. He makes enough on his poultry to enable him to hire reliable help and pay them good wages. And so long as the market is what it now is there is room for a hundred others to get into the business. Probably at no other time in the history of this country were so many chicken dinners eaten as at the present time. Hotels, boarding houses farm houses, road-side stands, and others, are offering chicken dinners. And most of these serve a fine article, well up to the good qualities advertised.

Aside from the chickens which are to be eaten is the market for eggs and fowls. And judging by the price, when one goes to market to buy a dinner for himself the trade is not overstocked. There are practically no bargain prices. Anyone with a few acres of land can start in the hen business. Of course it is better to have a farm paid for and some money for capital. It is slow work to start with little and build up, but on the other hand it is good to get experience. If one starts big, he has more to lose. And on any farm there are other things which will well pay for raising.

If going into the raising of hens and chickens, it is well to raise a portion, at least, of the feed. Oats, buckwheat, corn and other grains may well be a part of the farm products. Then there are small fruits, and the staple crop of apples. Certainly there is a good opportunity to the man who is willing to work. He can hardly fail of making a success on the farm if he goes at it right. But farming in the old way of fifty years ago will give not very much more than a bare living.

The Judge also has this to say, which applies as well in this state as in New Hampshire:'

New Hampshire is being investigated. There are inquisitors going about asking all manner of questions. One wants to know how the prohibitory amendment is working out. Is there any booze being sold, etc. Another has been over the state prying into the way we care for our poor and needy people. Then there is the survey to ascertain the amount and object of automobile traffic. An economic survey is being made by the U. S. Department of commerce, and others are looking into the textile manufacturing. The farmer has been subject to all kinds of investigations during past years, and now he has to tell how much and what he raises in crops, stock, etc. There is one sure thing which is that these investigations amount to somthing, and that is, a good job with high pay to the party conducting the quiz.

BRIDGTON

A Sister's Tribute to the Memory of Charles P. Whitehouse

Charles P. Whitehouse, for over fifty years a resident of Bridgton, coming to that town from Sweden, died at his home on the Upper Highlands, Friday, July 30th, in his eighty-fourth year. The deceased was a Civil War veteran, enlisting at the age of nineteen years in Co. B. of the 17th Maine Infantry. Two pictures stand out clearly in my memory. One when he said "Good-bye" to mother, sweetheart and sister. I little understood their tears, childlike, thinking only of how brave and handsome he looked. The other of his return late one night, a rap at the door! My father's call, "Who's there?" "This is your son." And when my father's fumbling fingers had at last made out to open the door, and the lamplight fell on that pale face and emaciated form, I could hardly believe it could be the brother who had gone away so full of hope and courage.

He had served nearly eighteen months and been honorably discharged for disability.

Later he was united in marriage to Miss Lydia Brackett, to whom he was betrothed when he entered the army. Four sons and one daughter were born to them, Byron B., Elden T., Harry E., Lester and Emily J. The two oldest sons own farms near their father's late home, Harry lives in Richmond, Lester has always lived at home and the daughter, who taught school after graduating from Bridgton Academy, gave up teaching when needed at home and most tenderly and faithfuly cared for father and mother in their declining years. Often when the writer saw him he spoke of how kind Emily and Lester were to him and what good care he had. His other children did everything they could to help and cheer him in his last long and tedious illness. Harry often coming from Richmond to see him.

He had been always loyal to his home and family and this was his reward.

Mr. Whitehouse was born in Boston, April 16, 1843. The son of Charles and Eliza Whitehouse. He came to Maine with his parents when a young boy. He was a dutiful son and a kind and loving brother.

He was naturally very ingenious and worked at carpentering beside his farming. He built the house in which he lived, doing all the work himself.

Mr. Whitehouse's death was the first break in a family of seven brothers and sisters. One brother, Hayward Whitehouse, and five sisters, Mrs. Eliza Edwards, Mrs. Julia Chadbourne, Mrs. Luella Jones, Mrs. Lillie Marr, North Bridgton, and Mrs. Lydia Shedd, North Waterford. Also five children, three grandchildren and three great grandgrandchildren survive him.

Funeral services were held at his late residence, attended by Rev. L. W. Witham. Several G. A. R. veterans were in attendance. He was a member of Farragut Post G. A. R. There are twelve survivors on Roll. At one time there were 130. Interment was in High Street Cemetery. The flowers were many and beautiful.

Now no longer we are seven.
One has passed the King's Highway,
Gone to join the ranks in Heaven,
Leaving us to wait, and pray,
Since we are no longer seven,
And our brother's gone for aye,
Now the golden chain is riven,
How much longer must we stay?
Lord, let faith to us be given
As we journey on life's way,
Where there are no broken bands
We shall meet him by and by.
In the house not made with hands,
For the time is drawing nigh
When we'll meet again as seven,
In a Father's home on high.

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

United Services at the Waterford Federated Church

Last Sunday in the United Parish was a day long to be remembered. The whole Parish united in the morning with the Waterford Federated Church in the rededication of their house of worship. All rejoice with the members of that church in the wonderfully beautiful meeting house. The appeal of the renewed building should lead all in the Parish to deeper reverence and more joyful worship.

In he afernoon Ernest Abbott spoke at All-the-Parish open air meeting at North Waterford. From the bible he read several selections showing the great fundamentals upon which all may unite in community and character building.

In the evening the folks again turned to the Flat to unite in a song service in the beautifully lighted church, at which time the lights of the church, a gift of one of the members, were consecrated.

We are hoping for a large attendance at the meeting of the Council on Thursday, at Albany.

Movies were shown after the Circle at North Waterford, Tuesday night. On Wednesday night at Waterford Flat and we hope on Friday night at Albany.

Next Sunday services will be held as follows:

Waterford Flat, 9:30.
East Stoneham, 9:30.
North Waterford, 11:00.
Albany, 11:15.
East Waterford, 2:30.
North Lovell, 2:30.
Bisbeetown, 3:30.

At 6:00, at East Stoneham, will be held the All-the-Parish service. This will be Mr. Wilson's last service with us and we hope many will be out for the meeting. The meeting will be in charge of the young folks. You want to be there!

SANBORN'S SPECIAL COLUMN

1926.
Sept. 21-24,
Cattle Fair,
Nights are cold.
Summer is ended.

Only three seasons this year: July, August and Winter. The latter commenced Wednesday.

Isn't Ex-Governor Baxter a bit in a hurry to get to Congress?

Maurice S. Sherman, Editor, Springfield Union writes, viz:

"Thank you for your letter. I greatly enjoyed hearing from you again and also reading the article on my friend, Don Seitz, which I think dealt with him rather unjustly, although he will probably get a laugh out of it. He dropped in on me a week or so ago and we had a very pleasant chat. I think a lot of him.

"I wish I might have sat in at the dinner you and Whiting had together. He is a good sport and his work on the Boston Herald has done much to enhance the prestige of that newspaper.

"I hope you have all kinds of luck at Parmacheenee Lake. You will if you only forsake the wet fly and tickle their appetites with one of the dry variety. What a poor fish a fish must be to prefer something dry. Wayne B. Wheeler ought to be able to stretch this into another argument for prohibition."

Bob Seavey got "bumped," Sunday. No, not just that, it was his car. You should have seen the Ford that hit him! It came out of Danforth Street. There was little left but rattle and the boys were unhurt, but greatly frightened. Our reporter did not get their names.

Ben. Brown, of Brown's Camps, severed an artery in the wrist of his right hand, last Thursday. It was done at the Golf Grounds storehouse. An overhanging scythe fell on his arm. He is getting on as well as could be expected. He is unable to play and may forfeit the Golf Championship while his arm is mending. We hope not.

Jack Burgess reports the loss of one lone, oblong, plump musk melon from his garden. It later developed that his daughter, Madlyn, got it. The police was not called or notified.

Frank Beck has lost the melons from his garden patch back of the Norway postoffice. Mr. Beck's melon patch was raided in the daytime.

A gold-toothed Indan Gipsy woman recently lifted $12.00 out of Ernest A. Merrill's pockets. He admits he had on his blue overalls, too. Ernest lives in Goffstown, near Manchester, N. H. He formerly was a Norway man.

Beware of the gold-toother Indian Gipsy! She may work at the coming Cattle Fair.

Look out for pick-pockets.

The bushes in the Old Cattle Pound, in Greenwood, have not yet been cut. Why not? Certainly they should be. "The Pound" is yet a useful institution. Cut the bushes and replace the fallen rocks that the travelling world may see and take heed.

A sign should be put up to point the way to Greenwood Ice Caves. Why not? Who will do it? Speak up—let us know.

Roger W. Babson of Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, wizard of Financial Bubbledom, has secured Mellie Dunham's Orchestra for two nights, Sept. 18 and 19. The tenth annual meeting of the World's International Business Men convene in Babson Park, Sept. 10-20. Mellie and Gram will be there and make music and be introduced to a new group of admirers.

Mr. Babson writes that he was much interested in the story of our recent arrest and conviction. Well, we were, too. It cost money and wasted our reputation.

Where is the Fryeburg Fliver? Lost on the road, or is it having a vacation?

"My grandfather, Nathan Knapp," said Mrs. Julian Brown, as she was looking at the water coming over the falls at Rumford, last Sunday, "was drowned here many, many years ago." He left a wife and nine children. His body was not recovered for many months and when found, it was at Brunswick. All the clothing he had on was one shoe and a stocking. He was swept away when removing a flash board from the dam. My father, David Knapp, was a young man when this happened. I used to get the cows from the pasture up where the Methodist Church now is, and there was an orchard with good apples nearby. Here is where we children went to the Knapp Rock and got fish, yes, trout, good ones. The logs would pile over it in the spring and we couldn't fish." This is what Mrs. G. J. Brown (nee Knapp) of Norway said while looking about the falls and the city of Rumford, recently.
